

MAR 1 1976

Rogers A-201
UConn
Storrs, Ct. 06268
Feb. 26, 1976

Dr. Joshua Lederberg
Dept. of Genetics
Stanford University School of Medicine
Stanford, Cal. 94305

Dr. Lederberg,

Amidst midterm exams I have found the time to submit the work that I did with you this past summer to the 30th Annual Eastern Colleges Science Conference. This conference will be held at Rhode Island College, Providence, R.I. during April 1-3, 1976. I have confirmed that although I did the work at Stanford, since I attend an Eastern school, I am eligible for award competition at the conference.

Interestingly, the theme of this convention (along with just about every other one during this bicentennial year) is "History of Science in America." This is in perfect accord with the study that I did with you.

Since I am entering material that I did under your supervision I felt that I should inform you of my actions.

Incidentally, although my General Genetics course last semester was not up to my expectations, I am taking an interesting lab course this semester in Microbial Genetics with Dr. Joseph Speyer.

I hope that things are going well with you. Please pass on a warm "hello" to Ruth, Johnnie, Julie, and all the others. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Mark Weidenbaum

Mark Weidenbaum